Tutoring Experience

Over the past six years, I have worked with students across various curriculums, including IB, A-Level, and IGCSE. My focus is on providing clear and structured guidance to help students build a strong understanding of economics and perform exceptionally well in their exams.

My experience spans different regions, including Singapore and the UK, and I have successfully guided students through challenging topics such as microeconomics and international trade. I strive to create a positive learning environment, ensuring that each student feels confident and prepared to tackle their academic challenges.
